● THE PROBLEM

It Was Hard For Ordinary People To Find The Right Law.

Kuwait Has Thousands Of Laws, Some Going Back More Than 60 Years. Most People Don't Know A Law's Official Number Or Name — They Just Have A Question. And Because Laws Get Updated Or Cancelled Over Time, It's Easy To Read An Old Version Without Realizing It

01

Legal language is confusing

Most people don't think in legal terms. They think in plain, everyday questions.

02

Laws change over time

A law can be updated or cancelled later — readers need an easy way to know what's current

03

It has to work in two languages

Kuwait's official language is Arabic, but many residents read and prefer English too

04

People need to trust what they read

If AI helps explain a law, it should never be confused with the real, official text.

DESIGN OBJECTIVE

Make Kuwait's Laws Easy To Search — And Easy To Trust

The Goal Was Simple: Let Anyone Find A Law Without Needing Legal Training, And Always Make It Obvious Which Version Is Correct Today. At The Same Time, The Ministry Team Publishing This Content Needed An Easy, Reliable Way To Keep It Accurate.

Search without legal knowledge

Let people describe a situation in their own words and still find the right answer.

Always show what's current

Make it obvious whether a law is new, updated, or no longer valid.

Keep the Ministry in control

Give staff a simple, accountable way to publish and update content
